Background

The current COVID-19 pandemic broke all boundaries and helped us connect more virtually. Screen time and use of technology increased multifold and perhaps the highest in history. There is enough evidence that in the coming times, the global consumer Internet video traffic will account for over 80% of internet traffic and virtual spaces that have videos are likely to draw more attention across all sectors.

Care Leavers or Care experienced youth have many stories to share: stories of hope, experiences and achievements. Being able to create impactful videos can be an enabling tool that can help them share their stories. Each story matters!

This, the objective of this workshop, which is the second webinar in the run up to the main event of the Care Leavers Convention, the aim is to impart video making skills to young people with care experience.

Format

Interactive Virtual Workshop. Participants will be provided simple tips to create effective videos and understand the process of video content creation through examples and interactive conversations. Participants will also discuss their own plans for videos at the end of the training.

Facilitator

Isha Chitnis, from India. Isha has been creating videos and training youth to create videos and on how to use digital tools since 2016 and have focused on using the medium of video to create social impact. She has created video content and social media campaigns for the social development sector around topics like child rights, women farmers rights, women's health and indigenous rights.
